LICENSE COURT
HEARINGS TODAY.Reports of the County Detectives Criticise Some Hotels

THAT HAVE HAD LICENSE

Remonstrances Filed Against Practically All of the New Applicants—The List Had Not Been Completed at Noon Today.UNIONTOWN, April 4.—The license hearings were given their hearing today in court with both Judges Underhill and Van Swearingen on the bench.
Only those applicants against whom remonstrances were filed were given a hearing, the old applicants being passed over briefly.The first remonstrance was made when
E. M. Goodman's name was called. Mr.
Goodman wants license for the "Trans-Atlantic" hotel in Connellville and there was no remonstrance against him. The court merely remarked that he was a new applicant.The report of the County Detectors was heard in regard to the Connellville hotels. Attention was called to the unsatisfactory location of the toilet room in the South House. At the Wyman the detectors recommended that a new roof be put on, and that the hotel be given a good overhauling.
The Young House was reported as needing some improvements.In Connellville township the applicants are William A. Furlong at South Connellville and Jules Schlinger at Broad Ford. Remonstrances are made against both houses on the grounds that hotels are not necessary at those points. Attorney Frank Rush represented the remonstrators. Attorney T.
F. Jones appeared for Furlong and Attorney John Duggan for Schlinger.The Bush House at Dawson gets a bad job in the report of the County Detectors. They failed to find a manager and could not see the proprietor, Annie E. Bush. Ed Hickey, the bartender, seemed to be running the place, and it was reported to the detectors that he had been intoxicated lately.
The house was characterized to be in "rotten" condition. "The carpets were worn and dirty; and part of the time guests had to use kerosene lamps at night. The toilets were found in bad and unsanitary condition. The parlor of the house was used as a sewing room."The Dunbar House came next. Antonio Bufano is the applicant. There was no remonstrance and the County Detectors had no comments.George Furbush's application in Dunbar township went through without the attorney for the remonstrators appearing. E. C. Hickey represented Furbush.
Hickey set forth that the remonstrance was signed largely by parties not in the immediate vicinity and about the same names that appeared in other years as the remonstrance against license in Vanderhill. The petition for the license was signed, he declared, by residents and taxpayers in the immediate vicinity.The applications of Harry Marlette and Albert J. McHugh for the Fair-chance House were heard. D. W. Mc-Donald represented Marlette and set forth that his client has possession and has been keeping the house open. Mc-Donald said Marlette has the legal interest. McHugh holds the lease for the house and the matter is in litigation. The court told the attorneys that license court is not the place to determine ownership.William H. Spalter wants license at Smock. He was faced by a formidable list of remonstrators. Attorney H. L.
Robinson appeared for them. Attorney R. W. Dawson, for the applicant, declared that a hotel is badly needed at Smock, that there is no place where travelers can secure a meal or other accommodations. He says the same people that signed the remonstrance came to Uniontown and accept the best accommodations of the good hotels.
Therefore, he argues, people of Uniontown and elsewhere visiting Smock, the center of that large mining district, should have the same accommodations. Attorney Robinson dwelt on the fact that there is no police protection at Smock and while the hotel might be a convenience for a few, it is not necessary for a large number of people visiting there because both Uniontown and Brownsville are easily reached.James L. Doneson of York's firm, had his attorney, George Patterson, ask that the license application be held over as the house is not yet completed.Thomas R. Miller wants to run a hotel at Newell. L. B. Brownfield appeared for him. He said industries are being built up at Newell but there is no place to care for the visitors to the town. Mr. Miller has been running a hotel there for some time and has his house full of guests. Brownfield said license was necessary for the new hotel and that the house Miller is willing to make any necessary changes recommended by the court.Brownfield claimed the remonstrance against Miller was largely signed by women. Attorney Robinson argued that Newell is well taken care of by the numerous boarding houses. He declared the main object of the license would be to supply the people across the river in Washington county with liquor.Mike Rice is the other applicant at Newell. George B. Jeffries appeared for Mike. The house is in course of construction. Jeffries made the same arguments as Brownfield. Attorney Miller for the remonstrators declared there were "repeaters" on Rice's supplemental petition.Hotel L. Roy at Massontown received a job when the court declared that William L. Graham, one of the applicants, lives on a farm and E. W. Sterling, his former partner, is in the South. The basement and cellar were full of garbage and the toilet room was in bad condition. The plastering on the office ceiling is in bad condition. A regular menagerie of stuffed animals was in the bar room window. Attorney H. F. Sterling appeared for these people and stated that E.
W. Sterling, one of the partners, is not an applicant, having retired from business. The court remarked that Graham would have to give the business his attention or get out of it.R. B. Hays applies for a new hotel to be known as the "New Mason." Charles A. Richey applies for the "Hotel de Madras." His attorney commented on the necessity for another hotel and submitted the plans.Claude D. Anderson applies for the "Hotel Anderson" at New Salem. He was represented by H. George May.
May set forth that Anderson is a proper person who has held license before, has a well furnished, properly equipped house, and had exceptionally good petitions. D. L. and L. L. Johnson also want license at New Salem.The W. C. T. U. remonstrated against W. D. Gilchrist at Ohioville.
George A. Bambray and James Byrne were one of the applicants at Perryopolis, with Davis L. Carson as the other. Attorney John Duggan, Jr., appeared for Bambray and Byrne, creating a diversion by stating that one of the men signing the remonstrance against license at Perry came to Uniontown and got drunk. He also claimed that this same man, who is a coke operator, used persuasive measures to get his employees to sign the remonstrance.There was a remonstrance against Carson, who wants to run a hotel at Banning, in Perry township. Attorney William Martin appeared for the remonstrators. He said the business part of Banning consisted of two stores and a meat shop, license being unnecessary.Julius J. Quentimont is the new applicant at Point Marion. There was no remonstrance. After hearing the application of Edward Byrne for Hotel Republic at Republic, court adjourning for dinner. Byrne was represented by Attorney D. F. Sterling.
Sterling made a long plea for Byrne and asked that points of law on granting the license be determined. He claims that Byrne has built a hotel at the cost of nearly $18,000, which shows his good faith in entering the business. He claimed that nearly half the remonstrants were from another township.H. F. Black, for the "Henry Kyla Home" and Michael J. Roland, the Central Hotel, were the Smithfield applicants. They were represented by Attorney E. Dale Field. The remonstrants were represented by John M.
Core. Field stated that conditions have changed in Smithfield and a licensed house is necessary. He declared that the remonstrants have homes to go to while the traveling public must depend upon one boarding house.
Many traveling men signed the petition for license. Attorney Core, in re-monstration, paid especial attention to Roland. The Baltimore & Ohio officials oppose him because the hotel is close to the station while the citizens say he is not a proper person to have license. The remonstrance against Black was general. Roland may lose out because his petition was not properly filed out.Although a remonstrance was filed against T. W. Baxter for the Riverview House in Connellville, no one appeared for the remonstrance when the hotel was called. The application for an eating house license by James M. Marlette had not been reached up to 3 o'clock this afternoon. It is taking an exceptionally long time to go over the list owing to the large number of new applicants.

Session Until April 14.The School Board will hold its regular monthly meeting this evening. The ness to come up. Under the new regime in Town

George E. Albrecht Buys Cottage.

The Connellville Building & Loan Association on Saturday sold to George E. Albrecht a cottage in the Davidson-Southway Addition, Chestnut street,
South Side.APRIL SHOWER.
Air Was a Bit Raw and Chilly on Sunday.Much needed rain fell yesterday and today, but there was not as much of it as might be desired. Yesterday the air was raw and chilly for a time, and a cold snap was feared.The weather today was warmer. The temperature was 60 degrees. The river is unusually low, 1.83 feet having been singed since Saturday.WALKER TAKEN BACK TO ANSWER CHARGECaught By Decey Letter Will Face Trial For Second Story Job at Carlisle.County Detective H. J. Bentley of Cumberland county arrived here this morning for William Walker, colored, alias William Johnson, who is wanted in Carlisle for burglary. Walker is alleged to have done a "second story" job some time ago, getting a watch, ring and other articles.Walker was traced to Connellville and located by the aid of Postmaster A. E. Kutz and a decoy letter. He was arrested by Officer Clifford Mc-Cullough Saturday evening.County Detective Bentley left with his prisoner shortly after arriving here. Chief of Police George Hotzel had previously been supplied with the warrant against the man, which was served on him at the time of his arrest.Drop Clifton
For Barnhart
At County JailUNIONTOWN, April 4.—There is to be a change in the official family of Sheriff P. A. Johns. Warden Eli Clifton is to be gently lifted from the jail to the Poor Farm as assistant steward.
James Barnhart, a son of Poor Director James J. Barnhart of Dunbar township is to be the new Warden and not "Sunny Jim" as stated Saturday.
Poor Director Barnhart has been active in his efforts to have the new Children's Home of Fayette county located in Dunbar township and the appointment of his son as Warden at the county jail is taken as a straw indicating which way the wind is blowing in coming events.The appointment of Barnhart as warden will also be pleasing to several young attorneys whose political appetites are overwhelmingly greater than their law practice. With Barnhart as Warden at the jail these young attorneys figure they will have a better showing in criminal court and also in their bank accounts.Meanwhile other details of the latest change in the official family of Sheriff Johns are being worked out, and when given to the public they may prove interesting reading as have other stories from the Sheriff's office in the past.Murphy Had Three Wives;
Is JailedUNIONTOWN, April 4.—Too many wives is the plight of O. J. Murphy, a fire boss working along the Monongahela river, near California. Constable Richard Woods brought him to jail today after an information had been sworn out by County Detective Alex McBeth.The latest wife for Murphy was Jennie Whitaker, aged 23, whom he married at Royal. At the time Murphy forgot to mention that he already had two wives, neither of whom was divorced.

IN VATICAN MIXUP.Opinion Is That He Acted Within Rights in Declining to Be Dictated To.

HE SHOWED RESENTMENT, TOO

Declined to Ignore Methodists in Order to Be Presented to the Pope.
England Believes Catholicism is Injured by the Affair.

United Press Telegram.

ROME, April 4.—It is the general opinion, except among the strictest Catholics, that Colonel Roosevelt ac-cided within his rights and with conformity to the dignity of his position in refusing to accept the invitation to visit the Pope so long as his conduct in Rome would be restricted.The restriction was that he would not be received by the Pope if he contemplated a prior address before the Methodist mission in Rome.
That the Colonel resented this dictation was shown in the brevity of his second dispatch to Ambassador Leshman from Cairo saying "The proposed presentation is impossible."The King received Colonel Roosevelt this morning. The Vatican is amazed at the publication of the messages between itself and Leshman.
Mr. Kennedy declares the messages were confidential.Col. Roosevelt and Kermit, his son, were granted an audience with the King, which lasted for two hours. It was the longest ever granted any one except on political questions. The nature of the conversation was not disclosed but from its length it is believed to have been partly due to the King's desire to hear Roosevelt's side of the Vatican controversy.A most interesting pair, the King declared after the departure of Roosevelt and his son. "I always considered Roosevelt one of the greatest men of the world and today's meeting only strengthened that impression."
They went to the Pantheon and placed wreaths on the tombs of the former Kings, Emanuel, Victor and Humbert. A crowd pressed close to Roosevelt and cheered wildly. Tomorrow the King will take Colonel Roosevelt driving, and Queen Helena will receive Mrs. Roosevelt and Ethel.
This evening the King will give a dinner for the Roosevelts.Cardinal Merry del Val, the Papal Secretary of State, today blamed Roosevelt for the Vatican controversy.
Without a formal statement, the Cardinal indicated that if Roosevelt had quietly acquiesced to the plans for his reception by the Pope the Vatican would have been glad to make it plain that Roosevelt's acquiescence was not submission which would have avoided the world discussion.The attempt of Cardinal Merry del Val to blame Colonel Roosevelt is not favored and many Catholics have declared that a mistake was made in dealing with the issue before it had arisen.Cablegrams from secular circles congratulate Roosevelt. Church and political circles here are stirred as they never have been for years.WASHINGTON, April 4.—Protestant Ministers generally endorse Colonel Roosevelt's action towards the Vatican. Mr. Falconio, the Papal delegate, said he had not received official advice concerning the matter and refused to make a statement.

West Penn has also been authorized to remove the dangerous reverse curve on the Buttermere hill, just east of town, and work has commenced.
This curve is exceedingly dangerous,

The Care of the Bathroom.

To keep the bathroom in a sanitary condition and insure safety from disease germs, it should be given a daily cleaning and weekly scrubbing. Each time the tub is used, it should be cleaned, and for this purpose nothing is better than a solution made by dissolving two tablespoonfuls of Gold Dust washing powder in a gallon of water. Once a week thoroughly scrub and scald tub, basin and other fixtures with hot water made from the washing powder, and pour down the pipes boiling water, which has been added Gold Dust in proportion of two tablespoonfuls of Gold Dust to every gallon of water. Lint and other obstructions may be removed from the water pipes by small hooks or bent hairpins. VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN

Is To Be Prosecuted Against the Bucket Shops.

Washington, April 4.—The department of Justice intends to investigate the Western Union Telegraph company's connection with the three big concerns that it raised for doing a countrywide bucketshop business. The federal authorities are going to find out if the Western Union, when they were furnishing the bucketshops with ticker and other wire services, were aware of the use that was being made of their facilities. It is shown that the telegraph company had such knowledge an action may be begun to include them in the conspiracy charges.

The department's campaign against the bucketshops of the country has not ended with the present proceedings. It was said that the department is planning to get after other shady concerns which are supposed to be doing a bucketshop business. The arrests in the raids in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Jersey City, when sixteen men were gathered into the governments net, will probably be followed by more.

Just how extensive the campaign against the bucketshops may turn out to be is uncertain at this time. That other persons engaged in bucketing are under the eye of the department is admitted.

Young Married Folks Should Try "The Aaron Way" of Buying Their Home Outfit.

It is a hundred times better to buy very-very-good furniture and pay for it a little at a time than to buy inferior stuff and pay spot cash. Fix that fact firmly in your mind. Don't make the mistake of thinking there is anything to boast of because you "pay cash for everything." Learn how to use your credit; how to make it work for you; how to have the good things of life without straining your bank account.

We are not advising you to buy more than you can afford. That would be unwise. We are simply telling you to study the matter of credit and learn how much more it lets you afford than your cash plan does. There is nothing complicated about "The Aaron Way" of selling and buying furniture. It is exceedingly simple, perfectly dignified, thoroughly high class and eminently sensible. Don't hesitate to ask us all about its workings.

Many young married folks make the sad mistake of trying to live in illy-furnished homes. This is too much of a change from the life they led previous to being married. It gets on their nerves. It often results in disagreeable moments, if not worse. If they only knew that by merely taking advantage of "The Aaron Way" they could live like real human beings, many a young married couple would solve what at present looks like a big problem.

Come to us and tell us frankly and freely what you need to make your home livable. Consider us in the light of a family lawyer, consulting you on matters concerning the comfort of your home. Let us give you the benefit of our years of experience in furniture matters. Let us show you how to avoid the snares and pitfalls of the business. The less money you have the more reason for spending it where it will do the most good.

"The Aaron Way" Is Open To Everybody. Get Acquainted With It. Study It. Use It!

THE PITTSBURG & LAKE ERIE AND THE WESTERN MARYLAND.

The Uniontown Herald prints a communication from a Dickinson Run man who says The Courier is having pipe-dreams when it says the shops and yards of the Western Maryland will be located here. The D. R. man is one of those cocksure fellows. He tells us that the location of these shops and yards at Dickinson Run is a "foregone conclusion," because there are already shops and yards at "13 tracks" there, and the company has optioned some 200 acres of land.

The optioning of this land has been announced in The Courier, but it will be recalled that it was optioned by the Pittsburg & Lake Erie and not by the Western Maryland, and that the shops and yards are the shops and yards of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie and not of the Western Maryland. These railroads are separate organizations, and will be operated separately, but they will exchange traffic freely at their point of connection, which is to say, at Connellsville.

The Western Maryland will connect with the Pittsburg & Lake Erie, according to the official announcement, at "New Haven, Pa." now a part of Connellsville borough, and not at Dickinson Run or some other point. It is reasonable, therefore, to assume that the terminal facilities will be established in as close proximity as possible to the terminus. It is also reasonable to assume that the Pittsburg & Lake Erie will need more yard room, and possibly more shop and round-house facilities at Dickinson Run when the Pittsburg, McKeesport & Younghougheny branch becomes a portion of an important through line, and perhaps this fact will better explain the Dickinson Run land options.

In conclusion we may be permitted to say that The Courier has never "located" the Western Maryland shops and yards in Connellsville. We merely stated the facts as we found them.
It is a fact that $200,000 is set aside for terminals, not at Dickinson Run, but at Connellsville, and it is also true that representatives of the Western Maryland have optioned certain lands in this vicinity.

The plans of most railroads, however, are kept to find out until they are actually announced. We would respectfully suggest to our Dickinson Run friends that we will perhaps know more fully about the Western Maryland plans, and certainly more definitely concerning them, when they are officially disclosed.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT
AND THE VATICAN.

There is a great deal being said today concerning the inability of Colonel Roosevelt and the Vatican to agree on terms of meeting, but from an American point of view the matter is of small importance and no significance whatever.

The Pope had a perfect right to specify the time on which he would receive the Ex-President of this nation, now a private citizen, and the American citizen had a perfect right to refuse to be bound by any restrictions the Holy Father would put upon his American freedom.

That American freedom finds no fault with the Pope for picking his company, nor with the Ex-President for refusing an invitation with a string to it.

NOT OUT OF DATE,
BUT OUT OF PROPORTION.

The Fayette county court house is not
"out of date," as has been suggested; it is merely out of proportion. The fact that its enlargement has been determined upon is proof of this fact.
If it were "out of date," the proper proposition would be a new court house.

The business of the county has grown beyond the limitations of the present court house, and in addition to this fact we are called upon to house new officers.

The present court house was built when the business of the county was conducted by one judge. Another judge and commonly another court were added more than ten years ago. A separate orphan court has since been established and after the returns are made of the present census we will add the office of county controller.

Eventually the time is at hand when additional room must be provided to accommodate the requirements of county administration, and the plan of adding to the present building is perhaps the most efficient and economical.

CONNELLSVILLE'S
PROPOSED BOND ISSUE.

The necessity of Greater Connellsville seems to demand another bond issue, and if this be reasonable and proper there is no doubt but that the people will cheerfully vote in favor of such bond issue.

The expansion of our city limits and the new conditions arising from that progressive act demands a certain measure of expenditure, which when made will last the town for a long period of years, and it can be readily paid for during such period.

It is proper for future citizens to help pay for improvements which they enjoy, but it is also proper for the present generation to make those improvements modern and ample so that they will reach down toward the date of the final extinguishment of the debt incurred in their construction.

Connellsville should be up to date, but not extravagant; enterprising, but not wasteful; progressive, but not prodigal.

THE REFERENDUM
IN DEMOCRATIC POLITICS.

Editor Warren Worth Bailey of the Johnstown Democrat, champion of Free Silver, Free Trade, the Single Tax and the Initiative and Referendum, ardently advocates the adoption of a rule that the Democratic voters of Pennsylvania shall express their preference for Governor on the ballot for delegates to the State Convention.
It is suspected that this is an attempt to nominate William Henry Berry and unhorse Colonel James Madison Guiley as leader of the Pennsylvania Democracy.

The gallant and generous Colonel will probably have something to say about this proposition.

A BLAST
FROM THE BUGLE.

"Connellsville is thinking of becoming a third-class city; but it will continue to publish some tenth-class newspapers," says the Uniontown Mourning Herald.

Well, if the Connellsville papers are in Class 10, some of the Uniontown papers with more vociferous protestations than visible excellence will be found still further down the line in Class 33.

It is a habit of the Beesontown Bugle to compliment itself upon its alleged enterprise. Sometimes this enterprise takes the form of acting as a press agent for the distribution of toy banks, and at rare intervals of actually purchasing an illustration for the paper.

It is natural and proper, however, for a Bugle to blow.

The Uniontown Goliath and Herald would like to locate the shops of the Western Maryland away from Connellsville, in fact, they would like to chase the railroad away. The low-combat Uniontown Goliath should pluck out the canker worm of jealousy and get busy in the job of booming good old Beesontown.

Some reporters are advanced to editorial station, but they remain reporters just the same, and poor ones at that.

The Western Maryland license court is trying to make business men out of the brewers and distillers.

Colonel Roosevelt wants it distinctly understood that he is not talking American politics to foreign newspapers.
There is no reason why he should. The foreign papers and their readers wouldn't understand it if he did.

The borough tax levy won't be changed. There is more economy in this announcement than appears on its surface.

The Philadelphia traction strike was won only to be lost. Some people never know when they are well off.

The Binville Bugle and the Evening
Echo are not even tenth-class. The West Penn death benefit system was announced in The Courier several months ago, also the story about the purchase of land at Dickinson Run for railroad purposes.

The cost of punching a man's face

Connellsville landlords stand well

Book Review.

Modern Coking Practice. T. H. Byron and J. E. Christopher. Octavo (6x9.2) of 166 pages, 117 illustrations, maroon cloth, boards. New York and London, 1910. Norman W. Hensley Publishing Co., New York City, publishers. Price $2.50.

The authors are technical men, Mr.
Byron being chief chemist for the Wigan Coal and Iron Company, and college lecturer for 15 years while Mr.
Christopher is assistant manager for the Somet-Solving coking plant for the Wigan Technical College also. The sub-title declares this to be "a handbook for those engaged in coke manufacture and the recovery of by-products" which hits gas men as well as coke oven men. The illustrations are well selected and distinct while the subject matter, although not very abundant upon the subject of coke oven practice, is yet of interest. The paper is unusually heavy.

The volume begins with a brief history of iron manufacture, classification of fuels, coal washing, sampling coal, calorimetry, coke oven topics (20 pages), charging and discharging ovens (10 pages), cooling and condensing plant (12 pages), gas exhausters (9 pages), ammonia, liquor, sulphur gas from coke ovens (18 pages) and useful tables. There is a four-page subject index and although the book is of British origin it will make interesting reading for American gas engineers.

WOMAN SHOTS HERSELF DEAD.

Fearing Burglars Miss Rose Galster Is the Accidental Victim

OF REVOLVER AT SCOTTPALE

Greensburg Woman Tried to Load Old Model Weapon and Ball Pierces the Heart Region While Visiting Her Brother, George Galster.

SCOTTPALE, April 4.—The revolver went off, I am in awful agony, get a doctor," were the last words of Miss Rose Galster, as she crumpled to the floor, when her sister-in-law, Mrs. George Galster, entered Miss Galster's room Saturday evening. Death ensued almost immediately, a bullet having gone into the heart region.

To the visits of sneak thieves in a number of houses of town on Friday evening may be ascribed the direct cause of the woman's death, for, fearing burglars she had secured a revolver of ancient make from the room of her brother, George Galster, whom she was visiting, and in loading the weapon was discharged. Miss Galster was clad in her nightgown, and was coming toward the door when she was found, while the revolver was at the other side of the room.

Miss Galster had retired to her room, and Mr. and Mrs. Galster were in the sitting room on the floor below, when they heard a sound that they seemed like a window crashing down. Mrs. Galster hurried upstairs thinking that a window might have been broken and met the girl coming toward the door. Dr. D. C. Engle of Spring street was called, but life was extinct when he reached the house, which is at the upper end of town.

Miss Galster was well and favorably known in Greensburg, her home town. For a number of years she conducted a high class millinery store there, and accumulated quite an estate, some say probably amounting to $10,000. Then she sold out and afterward became a member of the infirmary department of A. K. Troutman's store. She was an accomplished, educated woman, a charming conversationalist, and traveled much, and was widely known as an authority on millinery styles. Recently she had a leave of absence from the store on account of ill health, and had been in the Westmoreland hospital under the care of Dr. L. O. Felt of Greensburg. On Thursday she was so much better that she was brought to Scottsdale in an automobile to visit for a few weeks with her brother George Galster, on Pearl street. Mr. Galster had moved from Pittsburg street, where he had lived for several years in a double house, the other side of the house being occupied by Mrs. Jane Markle. They now live in the house vacated by John Gault who moved from Pearl street to the country up about Tenn.

Mrs. Galster, accompanied by Miss Galster, went to call on Mrs. Markle on Saturday evening, and while there Mrs. Galster was in the act of putting on a new dress, and while she was doing so, she would try to visit Mrs. Markle about every day for the next couple of weeks, as she was recovering her usual health rapidly. During the evening the conversation turned upon the entering of the houses of Walter J. Jones and J. Rankin Walters, and the attempt to enter A. L. Rosenstock's house on Friday evening. At none of the places had the thieves taken much, but at the Walters' house they had secured a pile and the plate Mrs. Markle had found the next morning lying in their back yard, where the burglars had evidently been prowling around. This was mentioned. Miss Galster expressed a fear of their house being entered and said that she had asked Mr. Galster for a revolver. He had let his revolver, an old model lying empty on the dresser in their room, and Miss Galster on returning home again mentioned the revolver, went to the room and took the revolver, and attempted to load it herself, she had placed four cartridges in the revolver and the other three scratched up showed that the gun was working badly.

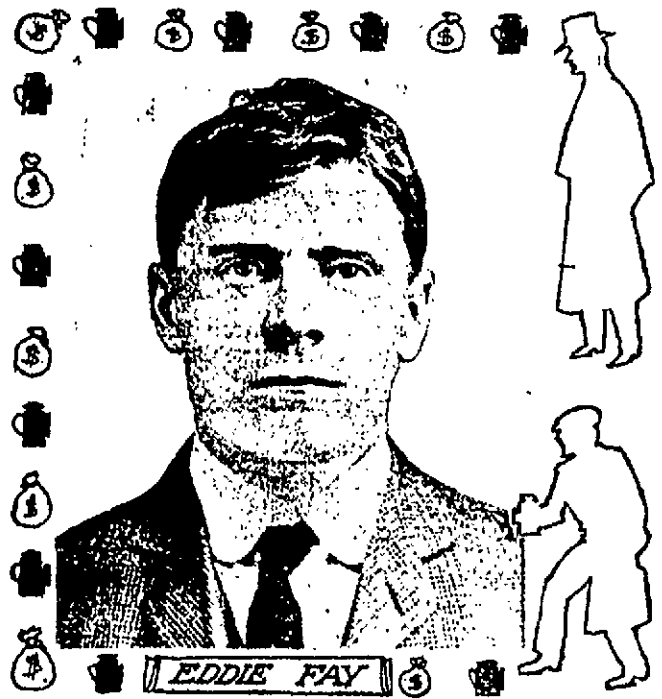

Coroner H. A. McMurphy was communicated with and after an investigation and the evidence appearing to point the Coroner rendered a decision of accidental death. Undertaker J. L. Murphy prepared the body for burial. Miss Galster was aged 42 and was a step daughter of F. L. Shubert of Hunker, and a niece of Leonard Keck of Greensburg. Her father was killed in an accident at the Walworth planing mill in the 70's. A half sister is Mrs. E. E. Hightberger of Chestnut street, Greensburg, and with her Miss Galster had made her home.

The funeral services will be held at the First Lutheran Church, of Greensburg, of which the deceased was a member, on the arrival of the body from Scottsdale about 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

A Slight Encouragement.
Farmers and grain growers and shrimpers were all encouraged by the sprinkle of rain that came down yesterday and all are hoping there will be more of this good thing, and no cold weather with it. A good deal of garden has been made about this locality, that cold weather would be extremely unpleasant for.

Is Seriously Ill.
Mrs. Alice C. Porter, wife of George W. Porter, Sr., is seriously ill at her home just west of town. She has been in failing health for sometime but her

EDDIE FAY, THE MOST FAMOUS BURGLAR IN THE UNITED STATES.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The police world is breathing a bit easier since the arrest of Eddie Fay, known to the underworld as the "millionaire burglar." Fay was arrested after a sensational fight in New York for robbing the postoffice of Richmond, Va., of more than $100,000 in stamps and money. He has long lived a dual life, and the police declare he has more than $500,000 in cash hidden in various deposit boxes throughout the country. Fay has served time in various prisons, but so far no lock or key has been strong enough to hold him, as he has always managed to escape. His favorite pastime is to pose as an English hunk and to wear the most expensive English clothing, his evening suits being a model of perfection. When Fay was arrested in New York condition the last several days has been poorly.

Was Visiting in Town.
Miss Galster of Greensburg, who has been the guest of her friend Miss Mary Hilkey for several days, returned home this morning.

Sunday Afternoon Meeting.
Rev. A. Auld, the pastor, preached a fine sermon at the Jacobus Creek Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday afternoon. This church is a popular one with the country folks and for town ones who like to go out into the country of a Sunday afternoon and attend worship at this old church.

Elected the Trustees.
The First Presbyterian Church, Rev. J. E. Hutchinson, pastor, elected their Trustees yesterday. John Dick, E. L. Stinner and W. Rindick Hill were elected to the board. John Walter presented a request that his name be not considered as a trustee, and F. W. Seemann was elected as the new member. W. J. Graef, Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., presented a set of resolutions testifying to the high esteem of the church for Mr. Walter's many years of efficient services in the church. Mr. Walter has been in failing health for some time and did not wish to continue on the board. The resolutions were adopted unanimously. The other members of the board of trustees are J. R. Smith, C. H. Elcher, J. B. Parker, Dr. N. E. Shiley, M. d. Loucks and E. R. Hough.

OPERATION FATAL.

Miss Beanie Wilson Is After an Attack of Appendicitis.

Special to The Courier.
MT. PLEASANT, April 4.—The funeral services conducted over the body of Miss Beanie Wilson at the Southfield street home of her parents Sunday afternoon were most impressive. The services were in charge of Rev. K. J. Stewart, pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian Church of which congregation the deceased was an earnest worker. Many friends and relatives were present at the service and afterward accompanied the body to its final resting place in the local cemetery. The death of Miss Wilson who was aged 22 years, was caused by an operation for appendicitis, and after an illness of but four days. The news of her death shocked her many friends in this community where she was widely known, and caused a great deal of sorrow. Hundreds of friends viewed the body on Saturday morning their last respects. Such friends who could not call sent floral tributes, which were many and beautiful.

Peculiar Accident.
A peculiar accident occurred Saturday afternoon in front of Stoner's grocery store on Main street. A spotted horse attached to a buggy driven by a farmer suddenly came around the corner at Church street and had reached Stoner's store when a trolley car went past. The horse became frightened and reared up on its hind feet and a pedestrian who was crossing the street at the time was directly in the path of the descending front foot of the frightened horse. The man managed to get far enough out of the way to escape serious injury, but one of the horse's front feet came down squarely in the man's coat pocket, ripping the coat and also catching the leg of his trousers, tearing them clear down to the cuff.

Local Recities.
Two pretty arranged social events were given Saturday evening for the entertainment of our local young set. Miss Juanita Husband entertained 20 couple at her home on Main street. An elaborate lunch was served. Friends of Frank Hays held a surprise party in honor of his birthday at his home on Washington street. Two score of young people were present. A dainty lunch was served.

Julius Reichenbach, junior member of the undertaking firm of Reichenbach & King, was operated upon in the Memorial hospital Saturday for appendicitis. His many friends will be pleased to learn that the operation was successful.

The Third Ward Hose Company of the local Volunteer Fire Department have not as yet received the rooms that Council at its recent meeting promised to provide for them, and furthermore, no steps have been taken by the proper authorities for securing the same. The boys think that it would be well if Council would look into the matter as such rooms are badly needed. Wilbur Harriott spent Sunday with relatives in Greensburg.

Polkman W. P. Ong was calling on friends in Greensburg yesterday.

Carl Walp is spending a few days with relatives in Greensburg.

BURIAL IN CANADA.

Body of W. C. Armstrong Was Exhumed This Morning.

Funeral Director C. C. Mitchell this morning exhumed the body of W. C. Armstrong, former Secretary of the Connelville Merchants' Association, which was interred in Hill Grove Cemetery at the time of his death, some two years ago.

At the request of Mrs. Armstrong the body will be shipped this afternoon to St. Catharines, Ont., for interment in the family burial plot there. The body will be shipped on this afternoon's 2 o'clock Pennsylvania train.

Card of Thanks.
Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Beatty of Leisensville wish to thank their many friends through this paper for the kindness shown them during the illness and death of their little daughter Gwendolyn.

Catawba Trail of The Iroquois To Plan for a Big Public Meeting.

A special meeting of Catawba Trail, Lodge No. 20, of the Iroquois, will be held this evening to plan for a big public meeting of the lodge about the middle of this month when there will be a prominent officer of the order here and visitors from nearby lodges.

Catawba Trail Lodge No. 20 was among the first lodges of the Order of the Iroquois organized in Pennsylvania. It was instituted in 1897, or 13 years ago. During its early days it was one of the active lodges of the town, and several notable banquets and entertainments gave the order considerable prominence among the citizens.

During its existence a number of deaths have occurred, and the widows and children received the money due an death benefits fully and promptly. Again the members are renewing their active interest in the lodge, and are now arranging for a public meeting and entertainment to be held in a few weeks. A raffle program will probably be presented, and the speaker will be the Supreme Secretary, Walter A. Rice of Buffalo N. Y., who was the founder of the order.

The Order of The Iroquois was incorporated under the Insurance laws of New York February 16th, 1908, with the Supreme Lodge offices at Buffalo where there are now over 1,000 members.

The order derived its name from

THE RAILROAD MEN SUFFER FROM STRIKE

Number of Trainmen and Firemen Furloughed Owing to Suspension at Mines.

The strikes of the bituminous coal miners already is resulting in hardship to men employed in other lines of endeavor, notably railroads, very many of whom have either lost their employment entirely or suffered curtailment of time and wages in consequence.

Saturday the Pittsburg & Lake Erie reduced the time of all its shophops to seven hours a day, five days in the week, from full time for six days.

At the same time a large number of locomotive firemen were discharged, their places being taken by younger engineers.

On the Pittsburg and Connelville Divisions of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad many brakemen and firemen have been furloughed. About 20 men were furloughed on the Connelville Division on Saturday and more than that number on the Pittsburg Division. The mines on the Connelville Division are not affected by the suspension of work at the mines, but nearly all of those on the Pittsburg Division are idle.

ANOTHER WOMAN CURED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Black Duck, Minn.—"About a year ago I wrote you that I was sick and could not do any of my housework. My sickness was called Retroflexion. When I would sit down I felt as if I could not get up. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and did just as you told me and now I am perfectly cured, and have a fine baby boy."

Consider This Advice.
No woman should submit to a surgical operation, which may mean death, until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made exclusively from roots and herbs, a fair trial.

This famous medicine for women has for thirty years proved to be the most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women residing in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It cures female ill, and creates radiant, buoyant female health. If you are ill, for your own sake as well as those you love, give it a trial.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

WOULD GO TO THE FUNERAL

Sick Musician Drops Dead in Front of Hearse.

Evansville, Ind., April 4.—Despite the protest of his wife, Jason Debar, a tuba player, sixty-four years old, who had been ill, insisted upon arising from bed to play in the band that the musicians' union had organized for the funeral of a fellow musician, Jacob Bauer. Debar and Bauer had been life-long friends.

His wife helped him on with his uniform and he walked rather unsteadily to the place of formation of the funeral cortege. Before the procession had gone two blocks Debar, blowing vigorously into his tuba, dropped dead in front of the hearse.

MAYOR W. A. MAGEE
OF GRAFT RIDDEN
PITTSBURG.

PITTSBURG, April 4.—The killing of Mayor William A. Magee of Pittsburgh by a meeting of citizens called to discuss the question of why Pittsburgh is famous for its dishonest officials, being followed by a movement on the part of a number of prominent business men to start a housecleaning from the Mayor down. A demand has been made in some quarters that all present officials be removed. During the investigations of the Grand Jury nothing has been found in the alleged way to show that Mayor Magee has been anything but an honest official, and his friends declare the blessing was the work of his political rivals.

CLOSE WATCH ON CRAFT JURY

Every Man in Panel Is To Have His Actions Thoroughly Investigated and Will Be Carefully Guarded—No Further Returns From Grand Jury

Pittsburg, April 4.—In an effort to locate evidence of the payment of large sums by the six depositors to counselmen District Attorney William A. Blakeley today will put experts at work on the books of the four of these institutions. As a result of this work there will be no further returns made by the grand jury. It is said, until Wednesday or later. The grand jury also wants the extra days to look over and compare the evidence given by witnesses during the last week. Every bit of testimony given by each man is to be examined carefully and compared with that of other witnesses to see if any discrepancies exist.

The grand jury is now in possession of most of the books of city depositors desired. These were obtained last week and have been retained for the scrutiny of experts. Reports of these experts will be compared carefully with the testimony of the men connected with city depositors who gave evidence before the grand jury.

No Chances With Jurors.
No chances are being taken by the district attorney on any of the jurors drawn on the panel for this week. Robert Wilson, special county detective with a force of men has been engaged for several days in investigating every man in the panel. Every juror listed has been subjected to the severest test possible. His connections, business social and political have been carefully scrutinized and every movement since his name was drawn from the jury wheel has been investigated.

Every juror is to be carefully guarded until the trial is completed. Detectives will follow a man every minute of the day and night to see that nothing is done to interfere with a fair and impartial verdict.

The grand jury investigating counselmen professed in its latest report found the bills of indictment against eight more counselmen even on the testimony of P. H. Kearns, the eighth against Morris Blanton, present number of select councilman named as the go-between connecting the bondholders with the Workmen's Savings Bank and Trust company, Northside. The new indictments found against these men.

John Casserly, George J. Gertz, John Hogan, James Elson, Peter Meyer, Justice Schrock and John Taylor. First in a further indictment is found on a presentment which charged him with having collected $20,000 from the Workmen's bank and having turned it over to the amount over to William Bond for the pool.

The new indictments bring the total number to thirty-eight sons of the indicted men the ring leaders, being indicted on several counts.

Hugh Ferguson was before the grand jury and told everything he knew regarding the final confession of the clique of five which controlled the bonding in council.

TRIAL OF HUSTON BEGINS

Defendant in Harrisburg For Another Battle on Fraud Charge

Harrisburg, Pa. April 4.—The trial of Archibute Joseph A. Huston on the charge that he conspired to defraud the state by certifying to a fraudulent bill for the state capital began in the Dauphin county court today. The trial has been postponed three times since it was started in January just after the state had opened its side because of the discovery that one of the jurors had a sister living in his home.

Attorneys for the state and defense arrived and Huston came in late accompanied by his brother. Both sides declare that the trial may be prolonged. President Judge George Kunz, who presided in the two previous trials will sit in the Huston trial.

CHAPTER XVI. GROENER AT BAY.

JUDGE HAUTEVILLE sat in his office at the Palais de Justice.

"Is M. Coquell back yet?" he asked of his clerk.

"Yes, sir. He's waiting."

"Good! I'll see him."

The clerk withdrew and ushered in M. Paul.

"Sit down," motioned the judge.

"Coquell, I'm tired, but I'm going to examine this man of yours tonight. Remember, you have no standing in this case. The work has been done by Tignol, the warrant was served by Tignol, and the witnesses have been summoned by Tignol. Is that understood?"

"Of course."

"That is my official attitude," smiled Hauteville, unbending a little. "I needn't add that between ourselves I appreciate what you have done, and I shall do my best to have your services properly recognized."

Coquell bowed.

"Now, then," continued the judge, "have you got the witnesses?"

"Yes."

"And the girl?"

"I went for her myself. She is outside."

"And the prisoner?"

"He's in another room under guard."

"The things he wore? Did you find them?"

The detective nodded. "We found that he has a room on the fifth floor over Mme Cecile's. He keeps it by the year. He made his change there, and we found everything that he took off—the wig, the beard and the rough clothes."

"Capital! Capital! I want you to be present, Coquell, at the examination."

"Ah, that's kind of you!" exclaimed M. Paul.

"Not kind at all. You'll be of great service. Get those witnesses out of sight and then bring in the man."

A few moments later the prisoner entered, wallowing with hands manacled. He wore his smart clothes and was as coldly self-possessioned as at the moment of his arrest. The clerk settled himself at his desk and prepared to write.

"What is your name?" began the judge.

"I don't care to give it."

"Is your name Adolf Groener?"

"No."

"Are you a woodcarver?"

"No."

"Groener, you are lying. Tell me if you have money to employ a lawyer?"

"I wish no lawyer."

"That is not the question. You are under suspicion of having committed a crime and—"

"What crime?" asked the prisoner sharply.

"Murder. We think that you shot the billiard player Martinez."

Both judge and detective watched the man closely as this name was spoken, but neither saw the slightest sign of emotion.

"So I ask if you will provide a lawyer?"

"No," answered the accused.

"Then the court will assign a lawyer for your defense."

"It's quite useless," shrugged the prisoner.

Then the magistrate resumed sternly: "You were arrested, sir, this afternoon in the company of a woman. Do you know who she is?"

"I do. She is a lady of my acquaintance."

The judge snorted incredulously. "You don't even know her name?"

"You think not?"

"Groener," said Hauteville sternly, "you say this woman is a person of your acquaintance. We'll see. He touched a bell, and as the door opened, "Mme Cecile," he said.

A moment later there swept in a large woman of forty-five with bold, dark eyes and hair that was too red to be real. She sat down.

"You are Mme. Cecile and you keep a tea room on the Place de la Madeleine?"

"Yes, sir."

The woman went on to relate that the day before her maid came into her establishment that afternoon and prevailed on a woman at a table, to whom she had introduced herself, to go out and drive a few blocks with him in a carriage. He offered her 500 francs. He assured her that he would not require her company for over seven or eight minutes. She accepted the offer. She knew that he had never met the woman before. Now the woman in question was brought in. She had been traced by Tignol's men. She corroborated what Mme. Cecile had said, and both hurried out.

"Now, sir, what have you to say?" demanded the judge, facing the prisoner.

"Nothing."

At this the judge leaned over to Coquell, and after a few low words he spoke to the clerk, who bowed and went out.

The judge resumed, "Do you also declare that you have a room, rented by the year, in the house of Mme. Cecile?"

"I know nothing about such a room," declared the other.

"I suppose you didn't go there to change your clothes?"

"Certainly not."

"Call Jules," said Hauteville. The clerk reappeared with a large leather bag.

"Open it," directed the magistrate.

"Spread the things on the table. Groener, what about this wig and false beard?"

Groener walked deliberately to the table.

"I've never seen these things before. I know nothing about them," he said.

The judge looked up and said quietly to the guard, "Take off his handcuffs, coat and shirt, boots and trousers."

The guard obeyed.

M. Paul whispered to Hauteville.

"Take off his garters and pull up his drawers. I want his legs bare below the knees."

"It's an outrage!" cried Groener.

"Shower, sir!" glared the magistrate.

Coquell stood by in eager watchfulness as the prisoner's lower legs were uncovered.

"Ah!" he cried in triumph. "I knew it! There!" He pointed to an egg-shaped wound on the right calf, two red semicircles in the white flesh.

"It's the first time I ever marked a man with my teeth!"

"What made that mark on your leg?" asked the judge.

"I—I was bitten by a dog."

"It's a wonder you didn't shoot the dog," flashed the detective.

"What do you mean?" retorted the other.

Coquell bent close, black wrath burning in his deep-set eyes, and spoke three simple words that seemed to smite the prisoner with sudden fear. "Oh, nothing, thank you."

So evident was the prisoner's emotion that Hauteville turned for an explanation to the detective, who said something under his breath.

"Very strange! Very important!" reflected the magistrate, then to the accused, "Now I want you to put on the things that were in that bag."

"No!" he cried hoarsely. "I won't do it! I'll never do it!"

Both the judge and Coquell gave startled nods at this sign of a break down, but they replied too soon, for by a marvelous effort of the will the man recovered his self-mastery and calm.

"After all," he corrected himself, "what does it matter? I'll put the things on." He donned the boots and garments of the woodcarver.

"There!" said the prisoner when the thing was done.

But the judge shook his head.

"You've forgotten the beard and the wig. Suppose you help make up his face," he said to the detective.

M. Paul fell to work zealously at this task, and, using an elaborate collection of paints, powders and brushes that were in the bag, he presently had accomplished a startling change in the unresisting prisoner. He had literally transformed him into the woodcarver.

"If you're not Groener now," said Coquell, surveying his work with a satisfied smile, "I'll swear you're his twin brother. It's the best disguise I ever saw. I'll take my hat off to you on that."

"Extraordinary!" murmured the judge.

"Groener, do you still deny that this disguise belongs to you?"

"I do."

"You haven't a young cousin known as Alice Groener?"

"No."

During these questions the door had opened silently at a sign from the magistrate, and Alice herself had entered the room.

"Turn around!" ordered the judge sharply, and as the accused obeyed he came suddenly face to face with the girl.

At the sight of him Alice started in surprise and fear and cried out, "Oh, Cousin Adolf!"

"Am I talking to you with your cousin's voice? Pay attention—tell me—am I?" asked the prisoner.

Alice shook her head in perplexity. "It's not my cousin's voice," she admitted.

The prisoner pulled off the beard and wig. Now the girl recognized her original identification.

"And it's not your cousin," declared the prisoner. Then he faced the judge.

"Is it reasonable that I could have lived with this girl for years in so intimate a way and been wearing a disguise all the time? It's absurd. She has good eyes. She would have detected this wig and false beard. Did you ever suspect that your cousin was a wig or a false beard?" he asked Alice.

"No," she replied. "I never did."

"You see," he triumphed to the magistrate, "she can't identify me as her cousin for the excellent reason that I'm not her cousin. I tell you I'm not Groener."

"Who are you then?" demanded the judge.

"You have no business to ask unless you can show that I have committed a crime, which you haven't done yet."

Here Coquell whispered to the judge.

"Certainly," nodded the latter, and, turning to Alice, he said, "You may go."

The girl left the room, followed by M. Paul.

"Certainly not," said Hauteville. The clerk reappeared with a large leather bag.

"Open it," directed the magistrate.

"Spread the things on the table. Groener, what about this wig and false beard?"

Groener walked deliberately to the table.

"I've never seen these things before. I know nothing about them," he said.

The judge looked up and said quietly to the guard, "Take off his handcuffs, coat and shirt, boots and trousers."

The guard obeyed.

M. Paul whispered to Hauteville.

FIRST PICTURES OF PENNSYLVANIA'S MAMMOTH NEW YORK TERMINAL.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The finishing touches are being added to the Pennsylvania terminal in the heart of Manhattan Island, and soon the public will be given a chance to inspect what is considered one of the greatest engineering feats in the railroad world. After years of tunnelling and destroying blocks of buildings a mammoth station has been erected and four tunnels that dive under the North and East rivers and Manhattan Island from west to east are almost in readiness for use. The work, which was started under the direction of the late A. J. Cassatt, President of the road, has marked an era in railroad work. The foundation for the station proper was started June 15, 1908. The New York terminal of the road alone covers 28 acres. Powerful electric engines will be used in hauling the trains, and each tunnel has two broad walks along which workmen and passengers may pass with perfect safety.

TO INCREASE COKE TRADE

Fairmont District Will Give Greater Attention to its Manufacture

ARE BUILDING A BIG WASHER

Consolidation Coal Company Will Leach Their Coal of All Foreign Matters and Attempt to Compete With the Connellsville Product.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., March 30.—More attention will be paid to the manufacture of coke in the Fairmont region from this time on than has ever been given this part of the coal industry here. For years the Connellsville field has had an almost exclusive trade in the manufacture and sale of coke and many people were led to believe that other coal fields would not make good coke. The Connellsville people manufactured most of their coal into coke and by so doing were able to make a greater profit from their product. Last year the coke product of the Connellsville field reached enormous proportions and during the year eighteen million tons of coke was manufactured and sold there alone. The coke sells at a high figure and the operators get the advantage of their increased profits.

The Consolidation Coal Company is getting ready to manufacture coke in greater quantities and of a better quality. The company has installed an immense washer that will leach the coal of all the foreign matter that lowers the value of coke the principal of which is the presence of sulphur. With the sulphur eliminated the local coal field can manufacture coke that is absolutely pure and can be used for the manufacture of the finest steel made.

The coal washer erected at Monaca for the Consolidation Coal Company is expected to be in operation this week. This is a new departure in the coal business in this region. The washer is erected to wash the slack coal from the various mines in the region for the purpose of making coke. The Fairmont field has never entered into the coke market from the fact that it has always used the inferior grades of coal for making coke and therefore has not met the competition in regard to quality with the Connellsville field where they are exclusively the run of mine coal. The experience in the market has shown that the Fairmont region can make as good coke as Connellsville if sufficient attention is paid to the quality which the washing of the slack coal will accomplish.

This washer was erected at a cost of about $60,000 and has a capacity of 1,000 tons of slack coal per day.

WARREN TOPPAN, Lynn, Mass.

Cured of severe compound cold and cough by

Vinol

"From Dec. 20, '08, to March 1, '09, I had three bad colds, one on top of the other. I got so weak I could hardly get around. Nothing seemed to help me until I began to take Vinol. The change was magic. Three bottles completely fixed that compound cold and stopped the terrible cough—and what surprised me most, at the same time it cured me of a severe stomach trouble that has bothered me for 20 years."

Vinol is certainly a wonderful medicine. Mr. Toppan is one of Lynn's most prominent and highly respected merchants, whose word is as good as his bond.

The reason Vinol is so successful in such cases is because it contains the two most world-famed tonics—the medicinal, strengthening, body-building elements of Cod Liver Oil and Tonic Iron.

THE STAGE AND THE PLAYERS.

Williams' Ideals Tomorrow.

John Williams' Ideal Burlesque will be seen tomorrow night at the Lyceum theatre in a burlesque on the story of the life of the late actor.

A clean-cut comedy, dramatized from Harriet M. Grath's novel of the same name. The play is a wonderful success on tour, and is an entertainment of rare merit and quality.
